

Anders Indset

BUSINESS PHILOSOPHER & TECH-EVANGELIST

The Norwegian-born philosopher, deep-tech investor Anders Indset has been recognized by Thinkers50 as one of the leading thinkers in technology and leadership. Anders is a bridge-builder between humanity and technology, shaping the economy of tomorrow with his practical philosophy. With two decades of experience working with multinational companies, he is a trusted sparring partner for international CEOs and political leaders, and a guest lecturer at leading international business schools.

With his deep understanding of the impact of exponential technologies, Anders demonstrates how and why leadership and its relationship to philosophy are more relevant than ever. He firmly believes that in a world with nearly unlimited access to knowledge, a deeper understanding and the ability to anticipate future scenarios, combined with the development of interpersonal skills, will be the most sought-after qualities for leaders.

Anders is the author of four Spiegel bestsellers: »The Viking Code – The Art of Science of Norwegian Success«, »The Infected Thinking«, »Quantum Economy – Saving The Mensch with Humane Capitalism« and »Wild Knowledge,« which have been translated into over 10 languages. His book »Ex Machina – The God Experiment« was published on January 1, 2025, and his work »Singularity Paradox – Bridging the Gap between Humanity and AI« will be released on April 29, 2025.

In addition to writing books, he brings his ideas to life as an investor in exponential technologies such as AI, quantum technology, health tech, and cybersecurity, supporting companies in scaling their products and services. Anders is the founder of the Njordis Group and the Global Institute of Leadership & Technology (GILT), as well as the initiator of numerous projects like the Quantum Economy Alliance.

Anders shares his thoughts in his 'Thinking out Loud' events, ranging from small CxO retreats to large events with several thousand participants. His diverse background and unique, inspiring presentation style make him one of the most sought-after keynote speakers of today.
